ARKANSAN PLUNGES TO DEATH

Hempstead Liquor Election Suit Is Postponed Again

Illness of Attorney Steve Carrigan Prevents Resumption of Case

RESET FOR JUNE 16

LeRoy Loudermilk and Frank Davis, Negroes Given Prison Sentences

The Hempstead county liquor election contest case, scheduled to be resumed Wednesday in county court at Washington, was postponed until Tuesday, June 16.

County Judge H. M. Stephens continued the case on motion of the contestees because of the illness of Attorney Steve Carrigan.

The suit brought by N. P. O'Neal and 11 other Hempstead county citizens alleges fraud and corrupt voting practices in 12 of the 36 county precincts and challenges 127 votes.

The county voted for retention of the Thorn law in the February 18 election by a majority of nine votes.

After county court adjourned Circuit Judge Dexter Bush heard two cases in the adjourned term of circuit court.

Two Negroes Sentenced

A suspended prison sentence for LeRoy Loudermilk, Hope negro, was revoked by the judge Wednesday when the negro was brought before the court on a charge of petit larceny.

The negro was convicted in circuit court in January on burglary and grand larceny charges growing out of the Lee DeVaughn robbery.

Last week the Hope police arrested the negro for stealing bananas from Franks Fruit store. Brought before Judge Bush Wednesday, the negro was sentenced to two to five years in the negro industrial school at Pine Bluff.

Frank Davis, Hope negro, waived examination on a charge of robbing a negro store near Yergers school, and was sentenced to two years by Judge Bush.

Huntville Votes Dry

HUNTVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—Huntville, county seat of Madison county, voted dry Tuesday in the city's local option liquor election. The vote was 77 to 22.

Huntville has one liquor store. The only other liquor store in the county is located near St. Paul.

Hardware Dealers Ask Lower Taxes

Association seeks "United Front" for Legislative Action

LITTLE ROCK.—Arkansas's 20,000 retail merchants were called upon by the State Retail Hardware Association Tuesday to form a "united front" for tax reduction by the 1937 legislature.

The proposal, discussed at the convention's opening session at the Hotel Marion will be presented in the form of a resolution Wednesday, Secretary George L. Turner of Little Rock said.

Committees were appointed by J. S. Shaddock of Camden, president, and will report at the closing session Wednesday afternoon.

The Nominating Committee is composed of Tom Johnson of PaPragould, chairman; C. W. Basore of Berryville; and Herbert Hanna of El Dorado.

On the Resolutions Committee are Jacob Hartz of Stuttgart, chairman; Tracy Rudolph of Arkadelphia and John Grimmer of Conway.

Members of the Legislative Committee are Mr. Turner, chairman; Emmett Mitchell of Morrilton and W. R. Bumpers of Charleston.

Widow Aided by Poet's Admirers

At her home near Heafford Junction, Wis., about to be sold under mortgage foreclosure proceedings, Mrs. Eugene Field, above, 80-year-old widow of the revered children's poet, lay seriously ill as friends and admirers of her husband from throughout the country offered aid. In recent years, her income from the poems of Field, who died in 1895, had dwindled sharply, her son, Eugene II, revealed.

Senate Approves Relief Allotment

Additional $3,000,000 to Carry on Heavy PWA Construction

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The senate appropriations committee Wednesday approved an relief appropriation of $1,425,000,000 to be turned over directly to President Roosevelt, with authority for the PWA to use and additional $300,000,000 to carry on heavy construction work.

Prescott Negro Sent to Prison

Confesses Plot to Chase School Principal Out of Prescott

PRESCOTT, Ark.—Probing a "deep-laid plot" with all the "trimmings" made famous by writers of fiction depicting the southern negro, authorities Tuesday sent one negro to the Arkansas penitentiary on the ancient charge of "night riding" and bound another over to the Nevada county grand jury, which meets in July.

Prosecuting Attorney Ned Stewart said the two negroes had "hatched up" an elaborate plot to terrorize E. Northcross, principal of the negro junior high school here, but the plot failed completely.

Robert Muldrew, 21, waived grand jury indictment on the charge of night riding and was sentenced to one year in prison by Circuit Judge Dexter Bush. Authorities said the charges grew out of efforts to force Northcross to resign.

Several months ago, the principal found pinned to the front door of his school a picture with a message, of officers said. The picture depicted a negro lying in a casket, with the caption, "Last Days on Earth." The note signed "KKKK" said: "This is your last warning to leave town." On one side of the picture, was a drawing of a stone, neatly lettered: "Northcross to resign."

A few days later, Muldrew left for California, and stayed six months. When it became known that he had completed a correspondence course in art from a school in Washington, D.C., suspicion turned to him, as the picture was well drawn. About two weeks ago, Muldrew returned here, was arrested and confessed. He implicated the other negro, saying he got only 35 cents for drawing the picture. Authorities had to dust off the ancient "night riding" statute to cover Muldrew's offense.

Mercury Above 100 in Washington State

SPOKANE, Wash.—(AP)—Temperatures soared above 100 degrees in some sections of the inland Northwest Tuesday, but cooling showers were expected during the night.

Wheat wintered under 105 degrees at Pasco, Wash., but wind and rain brought relief in late afternoon. Pendleton, Ore., also reported 105 degrees and wheat growers feared for their crops.

Committee Votes to Have Townsend Cited for Contempt

Recommends That Case Be Turned Over to District Attorney

VOTE IS SIX TO TWO

Townsend's Attorney Says That He Will Not Appear for Examination

WASHINGTON.—The house investigating committee voted 6 to 2 Wednesday to recommend that Dr. F. E. Townsend and two of his old age pension leaders be cited for contempt and the case turned over to the United States district attorney.

The contempt charges resulted from Dr. Townsend's walk out of the house probers several days ago. Two of his aides were later subpoenaed for questioning, but ignored the summons.

Challenges Subpoena

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Challenging "punitive action," Sheridan Downey, counsel for Dr. F. E. Townsend, Wednesday advised the house investigating committee "I shall not honor your subpoena" to appear for examination.

"Like Dr. Townsend, I challenge you to punitive action, for the unholy records of this investigation is a shield that will protect us," said Downey's statement.

Witness Collapses in Luciano Trial

Causes Delay in Vice Hearing—Operations Are Described

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The collapse of pretty Nancy Presser on the witness stand forced sudden postponement of the vice ring trial during which special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey hopes to prove Charles (Lucky) Luciano overlord of vice in New York city.

One of the chief witnesses for the prosecution, the former artist's model, an admitted prostitute, sagged in the witness stand and gave only faltering answers to defense lawyers as her second day in court ended.

A policeman said she was too ill to continue testifying.

Operations Described

Several witnesses testified as to the operations of what the state describes as Luciano's "syndicate."

None added materially to the evidence already in the record against Luciano and nine of his henchmen, and the prosecution indicated it would wind up its testimony by Wednesday night.

Admits Paying Frederico

James Russo, former taxi driver, related he had operated a small bordello and had been forced to pay tribute to Jimmy Frederico, described by the state as the syndicate's "general manager."

He Booked his Girls, he said, through

Pete Harris, who pleaded guilty to similar charges and turned state's evidence.

On cross-examination Russo admitted operating a disorderly house.

Bonding Group Explained

Two self-admitted prostitutes, both comely, followed Russo to the stand. The pair, Betty Anderson, 23, and Catherine O'Connor, 24, testified as to the setup of what they said was the Luciano bonding group and the commissions paid to "bookies." A third woman, Jenny Benjamin, a "madam," added little to previous testimony on bonding activities.

Ohio Farmer Tells of Legion Beating

William Smith Charges He Suffered Night of Terror

LIMA, O.—(AP)—William Smith, 55, farmer of near Farnesfield, 15 miles south of Lima, told authorities Tuesday that he had been beaten, imprisoned and his life was threatened by the Black Legion when he rebelled during the initiation ceremony.

Smith said he suffered the beating and a night of terror last September when he was led unsuspectingly by friends to seek membership in the organization.

"I was asked to join," Smith said, "without being very clear on what sort of outfit it was."

Some friends took me one dark rainy night to a big barn some distance from my home. There were armed guards posted all around, all masked, and inside there were 12 other candidates and about 200 men, all masked, with a robed, hooded leader. They had guns."

Salvage '$1,000,000 Wallpaper'

The "Million Dollar Room" of Chicago's Union League Club is losing its "wallpaper," so the depression must be over! Five years ago, during hard times, these "worthless" securities, being steamed off by Momme Jacobson, painter, and C. W. Bergquist, chairman of the house committee, were contributed by pessimistic members to decorate the room. Recently, however, the donors have been discovering that the "wallpaper" isn't quite worthless, after all, and have been asking the return of their stocks and bonds. The room will be redecorated as the Gold Room.

Poultry Project at Alton CCC Camp

Five Hundred White Rock Chicks to Be Raised by 35 Recruits

A poultry raising project is under way at the Alton CCC camp, six miles south of Hope.

Five hundred White Rock baby chicks have been purchased and will be raised by 35 enrollees of the camp. The purpose of this project is to teach enrollees of the camp the value of this type of vocation as a side line in general agricultural work as well as a paying proposition as a future business.

Every CCC camp in the United States has been assigned some education program, the Alton recruits choosing a poultry raising project.

F.D.R. to Deliver Historical Speech

Will Not Mix Politics in Tour of Arkansas, Texas, Indiana

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said that he would make purely historical speeches on his trip next month to Arkansas, Texas and Indiana and would not mix politics in the tour.

Replying to a press conference questioner who asked whether his Texas trip was planned to steal the show away from the Republican national convention, the president laughed and replied in the negative.

At the same time he warned those who have described the Southwestern trip as part of his political campaign that they had better exercise more care or he was apt to double-cross them.

He then said that in Arkansas he would be visiting a centennial celebration and his speech would be on the early history of that state.

Plan Air Line From Rome to Addis Ababa

ADDIS ABABA.—A commercial air line linking Rome and Addis Ababa soon will be opened to replace the service now being maintained by Italian bombing planes, it was announced Tuesday night.

Due to the absence of landing fields in Ethiopia, the African section of the proposed line will run from Asmara to Assab, in extreme Southern Eritrea, then to Djibouti, French Somaliland and finally to Addis Ababa.

Cotton Dealer Is Unable to Pay Debt

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The New York cotton exchange announced Wednesday that William B. Averell, prominent member of the exchange, was unable to meet his financial obligations in the cotton circles where he was known as one of the largest traders in the history of the business.

His failure to pay obligations was described as "one of the biggest shocks the exchange ever had."

Strikes in Many Parts of Nation

Police Asked to Take Precaution in Half Dozen Sections

By the Associated Press

Police and National Guard officials were asked Tuesday night to take precautionary measures in more than half a dozen sections of the country where thousands of industrial and agricultural workers were on strike.

At least 50,000 were involved in the walkouts and thousands more were involved in disputes which threatened to cause strikes.

There were few cases of violence. The most serious were clashes between strikers and non-strikers in the California vegetable fields where three men have been shot.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared the strikes were "a manifestation of what was bound to follow the Supreme Court's decision destroying such great principles as the NRA and the Guffey act established."

Union Workers Await Trial

At Akron, Ohio, 30 union workers of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company awaited trial on charges of violating a state anti-rioting statute. Three National Guard officers watched the plant.

At Portsmouth, Ohio, an affidavit was filed in Municipal Court charging that a special agent for the Wheeling Steel Corporation ordered company guards to fire 40 or 50 shots at pickets. About 5,500 workers are affected.

Union leaders at Syracuse, N. Y., ordered a strike of all workers in six plants of Remington-Rand, Inc., situated in the East and Midwest. They estimated 6,000 workers were involved.

Mystery Is Seen in Woman's Death

Coroner Orders Inquest in Death of Mrs. Bunk Stallings

GREENWOOD, Ark.—(AP)—Dr. Hugh Johnson, Sebastian county coroner, reported that an inquest would be held as the result of "mysterious circumstances" surrounding the death late Tuesday of Mrs. Bunk Stallings, about 80.

Dr. Johnson said the woman, mother of three small children and wife of a Works Progress Administration employee, died here following a series of convulsions believed caused by taking poison. The coroner indicated that she had not swallowed the poison deliberately.

"If she took it herself, it was accidental," Dr. Johnson said. "A case like this is difficult to decide immediately and that's why there will be an inquest."

The physician said the inquest probably would not be held until after an analysis of Mrs. Stallings' stomach has been made Wednesday in Fort Smith.

Protests Against Shooting of Guns

Complaint Received From Western Section of the City

Shooting of air rifles and 22 calibre rifles were reported to police Wednesday from the western section of the city, the first outbreak since Chief of Police Ridgill warned that unless the shooting stopped, persons would be arrested and taken into court.

A woman bookkeeper in a downtown establishment sobbed that her pet mocking bird and robin had been killed. She blamed it on air rifles.

Several days ago a pellet from an air rifle whistled through a screen door and grazed the head of an elderly man sitting on his back porch reading.

Delays Final Vote On Exchange Bill

Measure Postponed When Sen. Connally Debates Smith Amendment

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Debate over the Smith amendment to limit cotton future trading to 600,000 bales a year by an individual or firm delayed senate action Tuesday on the House-approved commodity exchange regulation bill.

The senate acted on several amendments relating to grain, restored butter and eggs to the provision of the bill and added Irish potatoes to the list of commodities over which trading control would be exercised.

As the bill now stands more stringent government regulations over commodities future exchanges would apply to wheat, cotton, rice, corn, oats, barley, rye, flaxseed, green sorghum, milk-feed butter and eggs and Irish potatoes.

The Commodity Exchange Commission, which would create under the measure, would be empowered to fix limits on future trading in these commodities.

The measure went over until Wednesday

when Senator Connally (Dem., Tex.) arose to debate the proposal of Senator Smith (Dem., S. C.) who said his amendment fixing a legislative limit on cotton trading was aimed at ending what he described as a "monopoly" on that commodity by a few large firms.

Arguing for adoption of his cotton trading limitation amendment, Smith said the only difference between it and the provision in the bill authorizing the commission to fix limits was the specified limitation upon the amount any one firm or individual may handle at one time.

G.O.P. Plans Hard Drive for Votes

Traditional Party Calm Is to Be Shattered in 1936 Campaign

By BYRON PRICE
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.

Prospects of a lively, hard-driving campaign are further confirmed by the plan of various Republican leaders to "oust" their presidential nominee immediately after the Cleveland convention.

Considering all of the circumstances, such a plan could only have had one origin. It unquestionably arose from a wide-spread conviction among Republican strategists that the party's best hope of winning lay in a vigorous, sustained attack, started as early as possible.

Refuses to Deal With Organizers

East Arkansas Cotton Farmers Want Nothing to Do With Union

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—The state labor department reported to Governor Futrell Tuesday that planters in Eastern Arkansas, scene of a cotton choppers strike, refused flatly to negotiate with officials of the Southern Tenant Farmers Union and did not favor an increase in the wages of day laborers.

The report, made by Deputy Commissioner Harry C. Malcom upon his return from a two-day survey in the area last week, said the "prevailing wage throughout Eastern Arkansas, with very few exceptions, is 75 cents per day without regard to the number of hours worked."

"A situation of this kind is very difficult to handle because of the fact that the individual planter who employs from 10 to 25 laborers refuses to negotiate with the union," Malcom reported to the governor.

"The general feeling among the same thinking planters is that the labor is to be sympathized with more than to be censured. They all refuse to negotiate with Mr. Mitchell (H. L. Mitchell, union secretary), as they refuse to concede that he has any right to represent their employees or to dictate terms under which they work."

"I made the suggestion in several instances that the price of day labor be raised generally to $1 and this was not met with favor. However, I feel that in the future they may do that if the price of cotton is indicated to stand off, but they do not care to do it right now as it would appear that they were being forced to do this by this union."

Malcom said the union had circulated handbills throughout the area requesting all laborers to refuse to work for less than $1.50 per day of 10 hours. He reported that among the landowners "there seems to be intense feeling against H. L. Mitchell in particular, and the union in general."

Father Is Guilty of Killing His Son

State Claims That $5,000 Insurance Policy Motive in Murder

SHREVEPORT, La.—(P)—B. A. Bass, 74, was convicted by a jury Tuesday night of murdering his son, Dan Nelson Bass, 24. He was found "guilty without capital punishment," a verdict automatically carrying a life prison sentence.

The jury, which had been hearing the case for 12 days, deliberated 2 1/2 hours.

The young Bass' body was found in bed at his home with two bullet wounds in the head.

The state claimed the father killed him to secure the benefit of a $5,000 insurance policy. The defense contended that he either committed suicide, was killed by a woman, a jealous husband or a "common enemy."

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Cow's milk is used most generally in the United States as a substitute for mother's milk.

It is essential that the milk come from healthy cows, that it be handled only by healthy people, and that it be clean and fresh.

Milk from different types of cows varies in its composition. The very rich milk that comes from Jerseys and Alderneys usually is not as satisfactory as that from average grade cows. Ordinarily, the best milk is that taken from a herd and mixed.

Novadays milk production and distribution is largely under state control. The milk taken from the cows is mixed and put in sterilized pails. These pails have been tuberculin tested. The milk is pasteurized, or perhaps first certified as to its freedom from harmful germs and then pasteurized. In country homes and in districts where milk is obtained fresh from the cows, the fluid should be boiled at once. Then it may be strained through several thicknesses of cheesecloth into jars or milk bottles which have been boiled. After being filled with the milk, these bottles should be covered and cooled immediately.

Milk for older children also should be boiled, unless it has been pasteurized. Pasteurization or boiling destroys the germs by heat. Most of the germs in good milk are not dangerous to human health. Occasionally, however, the streptococcus which produces septic sore throat may get into milk, and more rarely such dangerous germs as those of typhoid, diptheria, or scarlet fever.

In general, it is believed that heating milk does not injure it seriously, so far as its nutritional value is concerned. Moreover, some specialists believe that heating makes the milk more digestible, by alternating the curd.

Because the vitamin C necessary for the heat process, it is customary to begin giving orange juice very early in life. Directions for artificial feeding of any baby should be given by a doctor who understands this work. Cow's milk alone will not provide the baby with the food elements that it requires in the proper proportions. It is necessary to change the composition to meet the needs of the individual baby.

Only a thorough understanding of these requirements can bring about proper modification for the individual child. When cow's milk is fed, the gastric juice of the baby will increase in acidity to take care of the difference in the reaction between the cow's milk and human milk. To bring cow's milk to the optimum acidity for digestion, there must be much acid.

Milk for older children also should be added to obtain the amount that is had with ordinary human milk. One part of cow's milk diluted with two parts of water makes the milk more like the human variety. For this reason, it is customary to add water to the cow's milk in preparing the baby's formula.

er, he couldn't see the use of any more "carry-on." And no doubt he muttered darkly to himself that he'd probably "never hear the end of it as long as he lived."

To my way of thinking, the very idea of restitution by punishment or denial events things up pretty well. Of course, the sins we do live after us, and consequences have a way of pursuing the miscreant. Children will learn that in good time, too. Nevertheless, I believe that most parents are prone to overdo the "reminding."

Knowing Sam's mother and what a grand sport she is, I am certain that all reference to the tragedy has been dropped by this time. She was right to make the boy pay, and within her rights to cry, but now that the matter is over and everybody happy again, she will gird up her courage for the next fiasco and notwaste more words or resentment on the past.

When a boy (or girl) gets into a jam either by accident or willfulness, he usually suffers; the especially sensitive child continues to cry over a mere memory, as a rule. Shame is about as good a teacher as punishment. In any event, the two together are pretty effective.

Mental scars, more correctly called "emotional" scars, that undermine confidence and pride in self, are usually results of "rubbing it in" too long or too unfairly. Children need discipline, but frequently it costs the price of self-esteem. It is worth thinking about.

to the Reichswehr. He owed his dictatorship to the Reichswehr, and the famous "blood purge" of 1934 was merely the proof that he had transferred his allegiance from his own party to the all-powerful army.

Today, says Mr. Olden, Hitler is the Reichswehr's creature. He will remain dictator as long as the Reichswehr wishes—and no longer.

This book, as you may have surmised, is bitterly hostile to Hitler. It is a thorough, detailed bit of work which carries a good deal of conviction.

With this backing, Hitler was able to exploit the national unrest of the next few years; a master of propaganda, he could shoulder even Hugen-berg aside.

Then came the Reichswehr's decision to scrap the Versailles treaty and remain. This decision, says Mr. Olden, was made a year before Hitler became chancellor. A dictatorship was inevitable; the only question was, who would be the dictator?

In the confused jockeying and phlegm-which ensued, Mr. Olden continues, Hitler was able to sell himself could complain about. One is that he was not asked to do the screen play of his "Goody, Mr. Chips." Instead the task was handed to E. C. Sheriff, while Hilton was set to dashing off a screen play of "Camille" for Greta Garbo.

Naturally "Camille" is not quite the type of piece he would care about, so he generously regarded it as a challenge to his versatility, or as a mental exercise, such as learning Sanscrit.

Accommodating
Hilton does not mind having someone else adapt his "Rage in Heaven," which he says was a silly title and not much of a book anyway. He thinks it may make a good movie.

Over in London Alexander Korda is to film Hilton's "Without Armor" as soon as Marlene Dietrich shows up to star in it.

Hilton won't work on that, either, nor has he been able to assist with the screen play of his "Lost Horizon," which now is being produced here in Hollywood.

All For Better!
The author figured his prize novel (which was in its sixteenth printing the last time I looked) was in safe hands when Frank Capra acquired it for direction and Robert Riskin was assigned to the adaptation. Riskin and Capra have tossed in a couple of extra characters—and for comedy, one for love interest—and have changed the character of the lady missionary to—of all things—a disillusioned study in scarlet.

Not only did Hilton complacently accept these alterations, but he acknowledged that they'd probably improve the story. Hollywood is so astonished that already there is talk of striking a special Academy award for the first non-beefing author on record.

Moods Make Money
Of course, Hilton is receiving some rather staggering sums now, but it was not so long ago that he was wondering if he'd ever be able to hire a secretary. He says he was a miserable failure when he wrote with the sole intention of making some money.

He plunged into a mystery story, and by the fifth chapter had got so involved that he himself had no idea who the murderer was. And hasn't yet.

Success came when he began to translate moods. "Mr. Chips" was banged out in four days. "Lost Horizon" required only six weeks, but was the product of a lot of previous gloomy meditation on war's threat to civilization.

Hilton seems a very serious fellow, but one who knows that a sprightly novel can carry a message better than a dreary preachment. For example, he contends that "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" has a genuinely Christ-like quality, and considerably stronger one than a hoop-la-epic such as De Mille's "Sign of the Cross."

Getting back to "Lost Horizon," some months ago Hilton was approached about the sale of the original manuscript, and set what he considered an exorbitant price on it. He knew it was going to America, but had no idea to whom.

Later, dining with Frank Capra, he was flabbergasted when the director

It Takes Nine Famous Features to Make One Perfect Face!

The stars, and their choice features that go to form this perfection, according to the make-up men, are shown above.

tossed the manuscript across the table. That was all the assurance he needed that Capra was genuinely fond of the book.

Hilton is returning to England now, to do a play, another novel and some radio book reviewing. And then back to Hollywood.

He likes it here, even to what he describes as "the technique of idleness." The squandering of time, effort and money is all right because, he says, the movies are an art in which waste is essential to efficiency.

Dogs are not the only animals that contract rabies. This disease has been discovered in cats, cattle, horses, and swine.

More than 42 per cent of the total sales from farms are made during September, October, and November.

Camden Shuts Out Hope Here Tuesday

Five Errors Responsible, Nashville to Play Here Thursday

The Southern Krafstems of Camden, state snailshot champions, won a 7 to 0 victory here Tuesday over the Williams Lumber company baseball team.

Five errors committed by the Lumberjacks contributed heavily to Camden's scoring. Defensively, the Lumberjacks went to pieces with men on base.

The Krafstems rapped out eight hits off McDowell and Elliott. Hope got five off Reese, Camden hurler.

The Lumberjacks play Nashville here Thursday afternoon.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ripe to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, rank and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Hollywood

Adolf Hitler, mightiest of dictators, is a man who cannot make decisions, shrinks from conflict, and owes his power to a knack of tying his fortunes to the stronger of two opposing sides in any given fight.

This unflattering picture is contained in "Hitler," an analytical biography by Rudolf Olden (Covici-Friede, $3).

Mr. Olden reviews the realm leader's career in detail to demonstrate his thesis.

Hitler, he declares, was going no place fast when, in 1929, the powerful Hugenberg, head of the German Nationalists, decided that the Nazis could be useful, and arranged subsidies for them from German industrialists.

With this backing, Hitler was able to exploit the national unrest of the next few years; a master of propaganda, he could shoulder even Hugenberg aside.

Then came the Reichswehr's decision to scrap the Versailles treaty and remain. This decision, says Mr. Olden, was made a year before Hitler became chancellor. A dictatorship was inevitable; the only question was, who would be the dictator?

In the confused jockeying and phlegm-which ensued, Mr. Olden continues, Hitler was able to sell himself

HOLLYWOOD—Almost every author or who comes to Hollywood begins to scream like a banshee the minute he sees one of his brain children being mangled in a movie-mill.

For this reason Hollywood appreciates the gracious restraint of Mr. James Hilton, the bright young Englishman who recently has surrendered several of his books to the screen.

Not a single outraged yelp has come from Hilton. Instead, he has gone around making some very nice remarks about the movie business.

There are a number of things he

to the Reichswehr. He owed his dictatorship to the Reichswehr, and the famous "blood purge" of 1934 was merely the proof that he had transferred his allegiance from his own party to the all-powerful army.

Today, says Mr. Olden, Hitler is the Reichswehr's creature. He will remain dictator as long as the Reichswehr wishes—and no longer.

This book, as you may have surmised, is bitterly hostile to Hitler. It is a thorough, detailed bit of work which carries a good deal of conviction.

The GLAMOROUS ADVENTURE

by Jean Seiwright © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
GAIL EVERETT, winner of the John S. Lorne costume design prize, comes to New York to find work. Gail's parents are both dead. She has spent the past three years at MISS CRANSTON'S fashionable school for girls—due to Miss Cranston's generosity and friendship for Gail's mother.

Armed with a letter from Lorne, Gail goes to his office and is told he is out of town. DEREK HARGREAVES, an artist, overheard this conversation and offers to help Gail. He advises her to go to MADAME LIZETTE'S shop to apply for a job.

Gail arrives there just after temperamental Madame Lizette has learned her designer has gone to Hollywood. Gail gets the job and goes to work next morning. Madame Lizette is a trying employer and at the end of the day Gail is discouraged. She forgets this when Derek calls to take her to dinner.

LUCILLE TRAVERS, snobbish classmate of Gail's, asks them to join her party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII

DEREK said insistently, "But it's perfectly all right with me—don't give it another thought!"

They were leaving the Russian restaurant after Gail had refused Lucille Travers' invitation to join her friends.

"But I'm afraid I was rather selfish," Gail objected. "Lucille is frightfully rich. Perhaps if you'd met her friends it might have brought you some commissions for portraits."

"Do you think I'd sacrifice an hour with you for the sake of such a mercenary consideration?"

As they reached the door Gail noticed the woman who had spoken to her the day before in the tearoom—the one who had urged her to see a certain exhibit of paintings. Gail was surprised when Derek acknowledged the woman's jerky little bow most courteously.

It was not until they were outside that he said, "Did you notice that rather unusual looking woman to whom I bowed as we left the restaurant?"

"Yes. Who is she?" Gail asked interestedly.

"Mrs. Morton, the widow of one of America's greatest financiers. She's tremendously rich and takes an interest in young painters, trying to get a start. Art's her hobby. In fact, it was the sale of a little water color to her that set my feet on the ladder."

"How exciting!" said Gail. "But, believe it or not, she spoke to me yesterday!" Quickly she told Derek of their meeting.

"Well, you are having some lucky breaks, for if Mrs. Morton becomes interested in you or your work there isn't a thing she won't do for you."

"Oh, I may never meet her again. It isn't likely I'll be joining the social whirl. I'm afraid my work's going to take most of my time."

"Say, you're not going to make work the whole aim of your existence! I'm going to see to that, right now. How about a little trip Sunday?"

"I'm sorry I can't accept. I've promised to spend the week-end with some friends on Long Island."

"WELL, I hope you have a good time," said Derek as they reached the clubhouse.

"Oh, I guess I will. Thank you for the nicest evening I've had since I came to the big city."

"Glad you enjoyed it. By the way, the Ferrara gallery's to be open one or two evenings next week. The pictures are well worth seeing. Won't you let me take you there?"

"Of course I will, if you're sure you don't mind taking me."

"Mind? Are you fishing, little lady?"

For a precious moment his eyes held hers. Then, withdrawing her hands, Gail ran up the short flight of stone steps.

AS Gail turned the key in the door of her room the green-eyed girl she had seen in the dining room stepped out into the hall. She glanced up and down the hall and then crossed to Gail.

"I've just broken the points of my scissors," she said. "I wonder if I might borrow a pair from you for a moment or two? I'm Natalie Preston," she added, in a carefully modulated voice.

In closing its activities for the club year, the Bay View Reading club pre sented a centennial program at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the spacious home of Mrs. R. M. Briant on North Washington street. The play entitled,
"One Hundred Years With Arkansas" depicting the life and growth of the state, was written and assembled by Mrs. Hugh Smith program chairman for the afternoon. The prologue of the three act play dealt with the ear liest times to 1820, closing with a beau tiful poem, written by Mrs. Smith.
In her prologue, Mrs. Smith dwelt on the brave men and women of that time; dedicating the play to our fathers and mothers.

The first and second acts were de voted to the birth of Arkansas, and debate with the childhood from 1836 to 1850 as narrated by William E. Wood ruff the first editor, telling of the political life, organization and affairs

of state, followed by Mether Conway, who told of early life, in early form of entertainment, music, folklore, and styles. Albert Pike discussed the youth, telling of the social and eco nomic conditions just before the war,
the life of the slaves, the war, the re construction days, on into the peace ful period. The third and last act dealt with the maturity of the state,
giving a resume of the years, history
of the flag, state flower, and state
song, bringing in the modern celebri ties, Bob Burns, Lum' an Abner, clos ing with Dick Powell singing "Ar kansas" with Uncle Sam and Amer ica and Arkansas surrounded by the entire cast.

The program was witnessed by mem bers of the Bay View Reading club and a number of invited guests, who were enthusiastic in their praise, and it has been decided to repeat the play
at an early date, and invite the gen eral public, as one of Hope's contribu tions toward celebrating the centen nial.

Clever favors cut in the form of the state tied with red and blue ribbons,
giving the name of the play, the Time,
scene and characters, (also the handi work of the author) were distributed among the guests. During a social hour, the guests were invited into the beautiful flower garden of this hos pitable home where delightful fruit punch was served. The afternoon clos ed with the entire cast posing for pic tures to be used in the centennial edi

'Front Porch' for G.O.P. if Landon Is Nominated

This picturesque old mansion soon may be in the national spotlight, as headquarters for the Repub lican campaign for the presidency. If Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas wins the G. O. P. nomination in Cleveland, his official residence—the executive mansion in Topeka, pictured above—will be a Mecca for party notables from all over the country, and, on its rambling veranda, campaign plans will be hatched during the coming summer and fall.

Meanies Signed For Main Event

Williams and Miller to Fight It Out Here Thurs
day Night

Two meanies, Lefty Williams and Walter Miller, have been signed to appear in the main event of the Amer ican Legion outdoor wrestling stadium
Thursday night.

Williams was disqualified here last week against Leslie Wolf, and took a punch at the referee before leaving the ring. Miller is well known here and is capable of getting as rough as Wil liams.

Promoter Bert Mauldin announced that Mike Craddock, known as Mys tery Mike, has been signed as the op ponent of Leo Myers of Dallas, in the semi-final event.

Myers is a new comer. Craddock, veteran grappler of Iowa, has appear ed in Hope twice in recent weeks and gave the fans a run for their money.

Promoter Mauldin announced that passes would not be honored this week. Admission prices will be 25 cents. The show starts at 8:15. W. C.
Page will referee.

G. O. P. Plans Hard

tin nanti-climax. Once formally un der way, a campaign needs to be kept moving with increased momentum right up to election day. The old tradi tion of a notification ceremony
around mid-August rested on a belief in both parties that any campaign
which started too soon would lag, leaving candidates and voters weary
of it before the finish.

The Democrats broke away from that tradition four years ago. Now the Republican chiefs are propos ing that their party do the same, in hoping they hope to keep their heavy artillery going full blast from June to November.

Plan Adds Simplicity
Whatever the political wisdom of such a course, it certainly can be said that an immediate notification tends to simplify campaign procedure.

The old system involved a good many feigns, and resulted in many anomalies. From June to August a nominee was left officially, although not actually, on the loose. He was the designated leader of his party, yet he had not been invested with leadership.
Everybody knew that such a candi date was going ahead planning his campaign, even though he wasn't sup posed to know anything about his nomination. The situation developed its own lore of wit and humor, deal ing with the "surprise party" noti fication, and the sudden appearance of the astonished nominee, with a care fully-prepared speech in his pocket.
Nevertheless, there are those who for sentimental or other reasons still like the ceremonial aspects of the de layed notification. There are others who doubt the wisdom of opening the campaign so soon, it probably will be for the nominee himself to make the final decision.

Democrats Have Precedent
No one was surprised at the deci sion of the Democrats to hold their ceremony immediately after the con vention at Philadelphia, nor can that development be regarded as carrying the same significance which attaches to the proposal of the Republicans.

It was Mr. Roosevelt who brushed aside the old precedent in 1928, by bustling to Chicago and accepting the party standard in the presence of the delegates who nominated him. It could not be supposed that he would do otherwise this year.

With the Republicans it is different.
Breaking precedents is not the keynote of their campaign; in fact, a large part of the Republican attack rests on an accusation that Mr. Roosevelt has broken too many. Besides, they run the risk of being charged with trying to imitate the Democrats.

So the reasons which have caused the Republican plan to progress as far as it has must have been quite appeal
ing. Of course it remains to be defi nitely decided whether an early noti fication actually is to take place, but the buildup already in evidence proves the eagerness of important elements in the party to let precedent and all other considerations go by the board,
and start the fireworks.

An odorless onion is cultivated by the Chinese.

CLUB NOTES

Shower Springs

The Shower Springs Home Demon stration club met Thursday, May 22,
at the home of Mrs. S. R. England.
Meeting was called to order with Mrs.
J. E. McWilliams acting as president.
Miss Ada May England read the first chapter of Ruth, after which she lead
in prayer.

Roll call was answered by each member telling the nicest thing a neighbor had ever done for her. Sev eral of the members then told of some things that she had made of old fur niture or boxes.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Mrs. V. M. England gave an interesting report of the County Council which was held at Washington. After the old and new business was attended to, the project leaders gave their reports.

Our demonstration was supposed to have been an awning, but since Miss Griffin had resigned, we had no dem onstration.

The next meeting will be with Mrs.
J. S. Reed June 13.

New York Catcher Carried
Unconscious to Boston
Hospital

BOSTON.—(A)—The league-leading
New York Yankees lost the services of their reliable, veteran catcher, Bill Dickey, "for at least 10 days" and possibly longer Tuesday.

Carried unconscious from the field
at Fenway park after a collision with Eric McNair, Red Sox shortstop near home plate in the fourth inning of a game with the Red Sox, Dickey was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Dr. Edward O'Brien, Red Sox physi cian, said an X-ray picture showed that Dickey was suffering from "an injury to his left kidney."

McNair and the Yankee's catcher collided as Dickey took Ben Chap man's perfect throw-in from center field, to tag McNair out when he at tempted to score.

Have Leading Roles in Film Thursday

Jack Oakie and Sally Eilers play the leading roles in "Florida Special," a story of love, fun and intrigue aboard
a speeding express train, which comes Thursday and Friday to the Saenger.
The excitement of the story begins at the very moment the train pulls out of New York. Claude Gillingwater, an eccentric millionaire, boards the train with his entire fortune in uncut
jewels in a briefcase handcuffed to his crooked secretary. His niece, Frances Drake, is also with him. Gil lingwater trusts no one.

Rival gangs set out to nab the jewels. They kill the secretary and would make off with the gems and disappear. Miss Drake were it not for the cleverness of Jack Oakie, a re porter, who boarded the train to get a scoop from Kent Taylor, a young millionaire, and has found things too exciting to get off.

Sally Eilers is a hostess on the train
with whom Kent falls in love.

tion by the State Soil Conservation Commission that sections of the South
west's "Dust Bowl" be evacuated in a 10-year fight against soil erosion brought defiant protests Tuesday night
from Oklahoma Panhandle farmers, encouraged by recent heavy rains.

F. L. Vaughan, commission vice chairman, announced that complete evacuation of all "non-urban" sec tions of the Panhandle, center of se vere dust storms in the past, would be recommended to the next state legislature. Kansas, Colorado, Texas and New Mexico would be asked to enact similar laws.

The suggestion came shortly after the best rain in five years had turned dust dunes into quagmires and the farmers were preparing to plant row crops.

Edward O. Foster, director of Colo rado's Planning Commission, said pro posals for zoning that state's dust area probably would be submitted to the next legislature.

Do You Know The Answer to This Problem?

Whether you are just trading dollars—that is, if it is taking all you earn to live; or whether you have the problem of stretching a few dollars to meet a multitude of present and future financial requirements. Ask yourself this one question—Am I managing my money wisely?

Perhaps a budget plan will be helpful, or you need a program for systematic accumulation. Or you may find that you can put your idle surplus to work where larger returns are available.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

CAPTURE OF HILL 140

THE Germans were approaching Arras, when the French command decided to break the enemy lines and force a retreat. On May 9, 1915, the counterattack began, the objective being "Hill 140," five kilometers away and the brunt of the fighting fell upon a volunteer legion of Bohemian patriots, called the Nazdar.

Almost at the beginning of the fighting, the Nazdar legion lost its commander, then its standard bearer, then some of the best of its men. But in 90 minutes, Hill 140 was captured, and the first great step toward Czechoslovakian independence was taken.

On this battlefield today stands a majestic monument dedicated to the memory of the Czechoslovakian patriots who died there. This monument appears on the stamp shown here, one of two issued in 1935, on the 20th anniversary of this great battle.
